Motel sought for new inmate facility

■ City officials have not yet responded to the proposal and expect the idea of a local inmate center to come under serious scrutiny

By Steve Marschke

A California firm has notified City of West Sacramento officials that it is seeking to convert a West Capitol Motel to a community corrections center to house minimum-risk federal inmates. If approved, the new facility would take over the Best for Less Siesta Motel site at 1731 West Capitol Ave., a half-block west of Westacre Rd.

The company, Eclectic Communications, Inc. (ECI), has notified Mayor Cindy Tuttle of its plans in a letter written by Vice President of Operations John R. Forren, stationed in its Ventura office. ECI operates facilities in San Diego, El Monte, Oakland and San Francisco under contract with the federal bureau of prisons. The centers "provide services to and accountability for the residents through stringent contract requirements consistent with all Federal regulations."

On-site services would include 24-hour supervision, adult education programs and vocational skills programs. The letter stated that ECI is aware it will have to obtain federal and local approval to set up the new facility in West Sacramento.

Neither Forren nor motel property owner Manhar Patel could be immediately reached for comment.

Mayor Cindy Tuttle said she has passed the information along to fellow city council member Greg Potnick, who is himself a parole agent for the state of California.

Potnick said he is just beginning to look into the proposal, and that city manager Joe Goeden has informed him that the project would require some sort of permit approval after receiving local scrutiny.

"I'm familiar with this group," said Potnick. "They operate a number of facilities for law enforcement agencies. What this appears to be is a community corrections center for federal offenders It looks like a live-in type facility. It appears it would bring in new federal inmates (as opposed to parolees)."

Potnick cautioned that the city does not yet have all the information on the proposed project.

City officials appear to be watching the official closely, conscious of the already heavy burden probationers and parolees bring to West Sacramento. The city has more than its share of ex-convicts as well as those on parole or probation, partly because of the availability of low-income housing in the area.

Because the ECI proposal will deal with the federal corrections department, it would apparently bring more inmates or parolees to West Sacramento and the 40-unit Siesta Motel.

Police suspect foul play in disappearance of West Sacramento mother of four

By Steve Marschke

West Sacramento are looking for a 24 year old local woman who has been missing under suspicious circumstances since Jan. 7.

Melodee Dawn Wagner, also known as Melodee Dawn Joseph, was last seen after an argument with a relative on that date at about 9:30 p.m. She lives on Maple St. with her four children ranging from five months to six years old, said Detective Tom Bowler, but has not contacted the children or picked up her last three government assistance checks since she disappeared.

MELODEE DAWN WAGNER, last seen on Jan. 7, has not contacted her four young children since that date.

Wagner is 5' 7" tall, weighs 140 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes. She was last seen wearing a black and blue pullover jacket, black pants and black high-top tennis shoes. She was also wearing a silver necklace and a ring on one of her "pinky" fingers.

Anyone with information is asked to call Det. Dave Duckett or Det. Tom Bowler of the West Sacramento Police Dept. at 373-5870 or 372-2461.

City, police union ready to sign labor contract

Accord will be first since 1990 following an often-bitter dispute

By David Weller

The West Sacramento Police Officers Association (POA) is expected to have a written contract with the City of West Sacramento for the first time since 1990 after tomorrow's city council meeting.

The two parties reached verbal agreement in September. Prior to that, the city and the POA had been at odds over the contract for several years -- a dispute which even included a brief "blue flu" labor strike.

"It wasn't so much an issue of terms and conditions of employment as it was a question of getting people to talk with each other. Once negotiations began, the contract was settled pretty fast," said Carol Richardson, assistant city manager.

According to POA President, Marty Flatley, the association is not entirely satisfied, but finds the agreement acceptable. "It boiled down to asking how long you're going to battle on an issue, and how long you're willing to go without a contract," he said.

The POA represents 55 police officers in Sacramento, all the enforcement officers on the force, except for sargeants and lieutenants.

The contract includes a six percent raise and fully paid medical and dental benefits.

"A lot of it revolved around the parity issue with Sacramento," said Flatley of the long argument with the city. The raise brings West Sacramento police officers' pay to within about $600 per month of the pay of officers in Sacramento, according to Flatley, "but we would like to reach parity."

"It's a pretty good deal considering the times," he said.

Port shuts, reopens

Conflict over land lease leads to labor strike at Port

By Steve Marschke

A strike shut down the Port of Sacramento for about 20 hours beginning Monday evening and ending about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"They shut us down," said Assistant Port Director John Sulpizio. "We didn't have any ships at the dock, but we did have an immediate disruption of wood chip receiving, bagging of rice, bagging and distribution of fertilizer and maintenance activities."

Sulpizio said the strike was called to protest a lease of 6.5 acres of port property to Jones Sand & Barge Co., a non-union firm which plans to dredge sand from approved parts of the Sacramento River and process and distribute the sand from the port property. The land is located near the north end of the port's ship turning basin, near the foot of Harbor Blvd.

Pete Peterson, president of Longshoremen Local 18, told a Sacramento newspaper that the port was wrong to lease its land to a firm that did not have even one union employee.

"They are assigning work under our jurisdiction to somebody else that's coming in," he was quoted.

But Sulpizio countered that the port does not have authority over the use of union or non-union labor among businesses it leases land to, saying the arrangement with Jones Sand & Barge Co. was purely a real estate transaction.

Picketing was set up Monday by the unions representing the port's longshoremen, clerks and walking bosses, and the picket lines were honored by other port laborers. The strike ended voluntarily on Tuesday.

West Sacto Redevelopment Agency struggles with bare land, blight

By David Weller

Redevelopment agencies are intended by the state to provide a funding mechanism for local governments to invest in and rebuild blighted areas.

West Sacramento had a large redevelopment project area even before it became a city. In 1986, a year before the city incorporated, the county declared 5,400 acres in the area to be redevelopment land.

When West Sacramento became a city a year later, it established a Redevelopment Agency which took over responsibility for the project area from the county.

The agency has adopted a mission statement for its activities which reflects the lofty goals the city has promoted since its inception:

"To implement the community's vision for West Sacramento to become the premier City in the Sacramento Valley. To stimulate positive change, build a vibrant retail sector, a prestigious office address, diverse high-quality residential neighborhoods and provide quality employment opportunities for all residents."

In reality, the agency, in its first eight years has had mixed success at funding and implementing public improvement projects in the city.

Legally, the agency has responsibilities to use its funds for elimination of blight and the development of affordable housing.

The West Sacramento redevelopment project area is comprised of about 44 percent of the city. It is bordered by the city boundaries on the north, east and west sides of town. To the south, it includes the Southport Industrial Park and the Port of Sacramento.

Excluded from the area are large portions of the residential sections in the middle of town.

"I don't know why the residential sections were excluded, but the result is that the agency concentrates on developing business and industrial uses," said Redevelopment Director Val Toppenberg.

The agency and its projects are supported by "tax-increment funding." According to redevelopment law, for a period of 30 years after an area is legally declared a redevelopment project, all property taxes resulting from an increase in property values go into the redevelopment agency instead of the general fund of the county or city governments which normally collect the money.

The redevelopment agency is required to use 20 percent of its funds to pay for affordable housing. Other priorities the agency has include encouraging the growth of new business, "a general improvement of the city, a general improvement of the city, making West Sacramento look better and a better place to live," according to Toppenberg.

Toppenberg named several mechanisms the agency uses to try to improve conditions in the city. One tool it uses is simply to acquire property and remove or rehabilitate the buildings on them.

For example, the agency bought three pornographic book stores formerly operating in the city, including Goldie's, which once operated on Tower Court near the Tower Bridge. That area is now available for development.

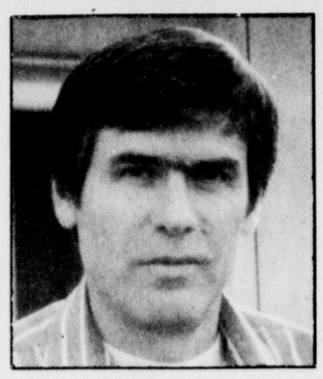
A second mechanism the agency uses for development is to install public improvements in order to support planned private development, which is being done at Raley's landing.

As part of its adherence to the affordable housing requirements, the last year the agency completed the development of West Capitol Courtyards on West Capitol east of Harbor Blvd. The development was funded with bonds, and now has 50 occupied residential units.

Although Toppenberg serves as the local agency's deputy director, the five members of the West Sacramento City Council serve as the Redevelopment Agency itself, and are ultimately responsible for its policy.

Really long novels with really unpronounceable names

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Years and years ago I took a college class from a professor who kindly pulled me aside one morning after her lecture and said, "Read Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov -- it's one of the greatest novels ever written -- and it has a lot of the answers you're looking for."

Although I greatly respected my professor -- I had already taken two classes from her -- the very last thing I wanted to do at that particular time in my life was sit down and read another lengthy old Russian novel. The pure torture of struggling through Tolstoy's War and Peace a year earlier was still fresh in my memory and I had sworn that I would never again pick up a book with dozens of hard to follow Russian characters whose names I could never seem to remember, much less spell. So I thanked my professor for her advice, assured her I would check out The Brothers Karamazov from the school library as soon as possible, and then quickly turned my attention to a long awaited fraternity mixer that was scheduled to take place later that evening.

"What's that book you've been curled up with all weekend?" I asked my wife the other night.

"The Brothers Karamazov -- by Dostoevsky," she mumbled, not even bothering to look up from the page she was reading.

"Really?" I said with interest. "Why in the world are you reading that?"

"Oh, your daughter gave it to me for homework," she explained. "She says she's got so many books to read this year that she's falling behind in a couple of her classes -- so I'm helping her out a little bit."

"You know of course that she used that very same excuse on me last semester," I said, remembering that my assignment had been to read Anton Chekhov's short story, "Gooseberries."

"I know," said my wife with a smile.

"So, do you like it?" I asked, pointing to the incredibly thick book in her hands. "Someone once told me it's really good."

"Well, it's really long -- that's for sure."

"What's it about?"

"What is it not about is probably a better question, but it's basically about these three brothers -- Alyosha, Ivan, and Dmitri -- who had this evil father who they...."

"Not the plot," I interrupted, knowing that it was probably as vast as Russia itself. "I just kinda want to know if you've run across anything -- you know -- profound."

"Well, sure, but all the really good stuff is in these long speeches that Dostoevsky gives his characters. Why don't you just read it for yourself after I finish -- I'm almost done with it."

"Oh, that's okay," I said, still not interested all these years later in picking up an 800 page Russian novel. "Can't you just mark a few of the places you think I'd like?"

"I will if you want," said my wife, but being the ex-English teacher she is, she quickly added, "but I really think you should read the whole thing for yourself. It's got just about everything you love in a book -- plus it's really depressing -- just the way you like them."

"For instance?" I said, returning her smile.

"Well, let's see, among other things, it talks a lot about how life isn't fair or just, and how organized religion often leads people into bondage instead of freedom, and how the world is full of hypocrites, and how too many bad things happen to children, and how if you understand too much of how the world really works it'll drive you crazy."

"That sounds like my kind of book, alright," I agreed.

"Here," she said, thumbing back towards the beginning of the book, "I'll read you a quick little sample. I'm sure it will make you want to read the whole thing. Ivan is talking to Alyosha, and he says, `I have a longing for life, and I go on living in spite of logic. Though I may not believe in the order of the universe, yet I love the sticky little leaves as they open in spring. I love the blue sky, I love some people sometimes without knowing why. I love some great deeds done by men, though I've long ceased perhaps to have faith in them, yet from old habit one's heart prizes them. And I know I am only going to a graveyard, but it's a most precious graveyard. Precious are the dead that lie there, every stone over them speaks of such burning life in the past, of such passionate faith in their work, their truth, and their struggle that I know I shall fall on the ground and kiss those stones and weep over them."

Later that evening, I took a deep breath, reluctantly picked up The Brothers Karamazov, turned to the first page, and began to read: "Alexey Fyodorovitch Karamazov was the third son of Fyodor Pavlovitch Karamozov. He was married twice, and had three sons, the eldest Dmitri, by his first wife, and two, Ivan and Alexey, by his second. Fyodor Palovitch's first wife, Aldelida Ivanovna...."

"Nope," I whispered to myself, closing the book, "I still just can't do it -- no matter how wonderfully depressing I bet the darn thing is."

FLASH GORDON

Written by Thomas Warkentin

YOU GAVE ME THIS SWORD... ...TO DEFEND YOUR THRONE.
WHEN AND HOW DO YOU EXPECT ME TO USE IT?
THE SWORD IS CEREMONIAL ...YOU WILL NOT USE IT.
TO USE IT WOULD MEAN YOUR DEATH.
ZARA, IF I'M TO DEFEND YOUR THRONE...
I NEED TO KNOW WHAT FORM VARO'S CHALLENGE WILL TAKE.
TRADITIONALLY, CHALLENGER AND DEFENDER FACE THREE TESTS.
THE FIRST TWO ARE QUESTIONS OF PURE LOGIC, DEVISED BY THE HIGH COUNCIL.
AND THE THIRD?
THE THIRD TEST IS A TIE-BREAKER. IF IT GETS TO THAT, YOU WILL DECLINE THE TEST... ADMIT DEFEAT.
WHAT??
THE THIRD TEST IS WITH SWORDS TO THE DEATH.
PRINCE VARO IS A MASTER SWORDSMAN. NO MAN CAN STAND AGAINST HIM.
I...LIKE YOU, FLASH; I FORBID YOU TO FIGHT VARO.
I LIKE YOU, ZARA, BUT I'M NOT YOUR SUBJECT.

News-Ledger Editorial

Bringing more inmates, parolees to town is unacceptable

Unless more information emerges which shows that we have totally the wrong impression of the project, a new proposal to bring a federal corrections center to West Sacramento is likely to go over like the proverbial lead balloon.

Housing federal inmates or parolees on West Capitol Ave. will add trouble to an already overburdened city. West Sacramento already has more than its share of probationers, parolees and ex-convicts, and it is a said truth that some of them bring drug problems, prostitution and petty crime with them.

City officials are not likely to support the proposal (again -- assuming it has been accurately understood), so there's no real reason to get excited at this point.

But if it's such a good idea, how about putting it on Fifth Street in Davis?

West Sacramento leaders are learning a lesson in development agreements -- the hard way. The Lighthouse Marina project, which city officials have bent over backwards and forwards for in the hopes of producing a high-class residence, golf course and marina, is in dire straits.

The golf course is in place. But the marina looks "iffy" and the high-price home lots aren't selling.

The marina developers would like to drop the requirement to build a marina, and after "extended negotiations" which have produced no concessions in the city's favor, they will likely get their wish. It just isn't financially feasible for the developers to pay for a marina right now.

So the city's multi-million dollar commitment of tax money, staff time, and efforts to relocate residents living in the way of the Lighthouse project may not ever bear the fruit they were intended to bear.

This is a shame, and nobody involved is happy about it.

But the development agreement in place between the city and Lighthouse illustrates a common point. Such agreements tend to protect the developer quite well, and the city much less well. West Sacramento, in the opinion of city staff, has little choice but to give up the marina requirement and the city's option on the marina land in order to keep the development solvent, but remains committed to providing improvements for the project.

Mormons not Christian

I read with interest the article in last week's edition of the News-Ledger regarding the new interfaith ministers association in West Sacramento. Please let me take a moment of your time for a clarification.

In the article, you comment that while this association is intended to be interfaith, all of the churches currently involved are Christian. You later name the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints as one of the currently involved churches. To include this church, commonly known as the Mormon Church, in a listing as a Christian church is an error. While the Mormon Church may indeed share some beliefs with churches of the Christian faith, their eighth article of faith is a clear point of divergence from Christianity. The article reads: "We believe the Bible to be the Word of God, as far as it is translated correctly; we also believe the Book of Mormon to be the Word of God." The second half of this statement places the Mormon Church clearly outside the bounds of Christian belief. Please note the following statements by the Christian church regarding the Word of God...

From the Second Helvetic Confession (1566; Swiss Protestant churches; adopted in Switzerland, Scotland, Hungary, France, and Poland) in its opening: "We believe and confess the canonical Scriptures of the holy prophets and apostles of both Testaments to be the true Word of God, and to have sufficient authority of themselves, not of men. For God himself spoke to the fathers, prophets, apostles, and still speaks to us through the Holy Scriptures. And in this Holy Scripture, the universal Church of Christ has the most complete exposition of all that pertains to a saving faith, and also to the framing of a life acceptable to God; and in this respect it is expressly commanded by God that nothing be either added to or taken from the same." (This last in reference to Revelation 22:18-19.)

From the Westminster Confession of Faith (1643; England), Chapter I, item 6: "The whole counsel of God, concerning all things necessary for his own glory, man's salvation, faith, and life, is either expressly set down in Scripture, or by good and necessary consequence may be deduced from Scripture: unto which nothing at any time is to be added, whether by new revelations of the Spirit, or traditions of men." And, from Chapter I, item 10: "The Supreme Judge, by which all controversies of religion are to be determined, and all decrees of councils, opinions of ancient writers, doctrines of men, and private spirits, are to be examined, and in whose sentence we are to rest, can be no other but the Holy Spirit speaking in the Scripture."

From the Theological Declaration of Barmen (May 29-31, 1934; Barmen, Germany), Section I, paragraph 4: "Try the spirits, whether they are of God! Prove also the words of the Confessional Synod of the German Evangelical Church to see whether they agree with Holy Scripture and with the Confessions of the Fathers. If you find that we are speaking contrary to Scripture, then do not listen to use! But if you find that we are taking our stand upon Scripture, then let no fear or temptation keep you from treading with us the path of faith and obedience to the Word of God,..."

And from the Confession of 1967 (United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America), Part I, Section C, item 2 "The Bible": "The one sufficient revelation of God is Jesus Christ, the Word of God incarnate, to whom the Holy Spirit bears unique and authoritative witness through the Holy Scriptures, which are received and obeyed as the word of God written. The Scriptures are not a witness among others, but the witness without parallel. The church has received the books of the Old and New Testaments as prophetic and apostolic testimony in which it hears the word of God and by which its faith and obedience are nourished and regulated."

I realize that these several citations may seem like overkill, but I do want you to grasp the importance of and the consistency with which the church has always identified the Bible alone as the Word of God written and standing above and in judgement of all other writings as our rule of faith and practice in the Christian community.

There are other remarkable differences in theology which set the Mormon Church outside the Christian faith even though the Mormon faith does include some beliefs which are common to Christianity. These discussions are much more complex and beyond the physical limitations of this letter.

Thank you for your time.

Lighthouse

So lighthouse Marina (Project) wants to drop the "Marina" part of its development and -- presumably -- its title. Hard financial times making it virtually impossible to market those $200,000.00 riverfront lots for $1,000,000.00-plus homes has been cited as the main reason.

But without the Marina or the houses, where do we stand? We have used city bonding to help finance most of the infrastructure costs. Land was also taken from previous owners using the procedure or threat of eminent domain by the city as if an agent for Lighthouse Marina...it is doubtful that Lighthouse could have obtained said land (even at a higher price) from long-term owners such as the Indian(s)' group(s).

Rather than simply let the Lighthouse folks off the hook, city council owes it to all West Sacramentans -- and the former landowners in particular -- to examine real closely the effects of a "marina-less project" with no real housing to date. We have a fancier golf course and a lot of infrastructure in place local taxpayers are financing until (full?) development of Lighthouse is realized.

Maybe Lighthouse should sell share of stock to the public, giving first choice to those who previously owned the land. Re-evaluation and re-zoning of subject land may be necessary to draw in the necessary capital to finally get something going so that our city can begin realizing repayment of its financing/ infrastructure costs and see

City Recycling Program Expands Services

You Can Now Recycle Used Motor Oil

Recycling of motor oil is now available for West Sacramento households and multi-family units (apartment complexes, condominiums, duplexes and fourplexes).

Multi-family unit residents should check with their Landlord or Property Manager for program participation.

Only motor oil will be accepted. For antifreeze or coolant recycling, participate in the Hazardous Waste Collection Day.

Free Containers

Call 373-3720 to receive a free motor oil container for recycling. It is mandatory to use only these containers when you recycle used oil. When you change your oil, simply pour the used oil into the container, seal and place along side your regular garbage on collection day. The oil will be emptied and the container will be left for your reuse. By providing motor oil containers for your use, we avoid contaminating other plastic containers which then must be disposed. The containers have been designed for re-use and maximum efficiency.

Down the Drain

Pouring motor oil down the drain, into a dumpster or on the ground, directly contaminates ground water and the River. Remember, your drinking water is only as safe as the water around us. Dispose of motor oil properly and save our resources.

Do the Right Thing

With your participation, West Sacramento is well on its way to a successful program. Under AB939, State of California Recycling Goals, we have been mandated to reduce the amount of waste deposited in the landfill by 25%. We retain local control of our recycling program in how we meet that goal. Currently, our recycling program has reached 20.9%. During the holidays, 700 Christmas trees were recycled by the City Recycling Program with help from the Earth Shuttle from Golden State Middle School and Pop Warner Football and community volunteers. These trees, otherwise, would have ended up in the landfill. With programs like this, we can keep our costs low. We currently have one of the lowest refuse rates in the region. Thanks for your help.

Curbside Recycling

Currently, plastic containers (with the number 1 or 2 on the bottom), aluminum cans including empty aerosols, empty paint cans, tin cans, catfood cans (even with white liners), soup cans, coffee cans, etc. can be placed in recycling bins for pick up on your regular refuse collection day. Remember, no plastic laundry bags or coat hangers. For information on where to recycle these and other items, call 373-5810 for a handy Recycler's Guide.

Recycle in the Park

You may have noticed our new recycling containers in City Parks. Feel free to drop off excess recyclable containers at these convenient bins.

Mark Your Calendar

Saturday, March 25th is the next Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day. Dispose of poisons, solvents, garden chemicals, paints, gasoline, batteries, household cleansers, pool chemicals, automotive fluids (coolant, antifreeze), used motor oil, filters and filled aerosol cans. There is a limit of 50 pounds of solid waste or five gallons of liquid per customer. The event is held at the Yolo County Landfill located on County Road 28H, east of Count Road 104. Call the City Hazardous Waste Hotline at 372-0850 for more information.

Coming Attractions

Spring Composting classes and Beautification Week will be held in May. A Garden Refuse Collection program is now in the planning stages.

Our printing costs just went up.
Our mailing costs just went up.
Our subscription rates just stayed the same.

Prices for newsprint are rising, and producing this newspaper was about 15 percent more expensive than it would have been a couple of months ago. And at the same time the U.S. Postal Service raised the price of a first class stamp from 29 cents to 32 cents, it raised the rates we use to bring our subscribers their weekly copies of the News-Ledger.

It occurred to us that it might be necessary to raise subscription rates to cover these rising costs.

But we're going to try not to. There is another way. With your help, we can keep our annual subscription rate right where it is -- at the unusually low rate of $15 per year within Yolo County and $20 elsewhere.

How?

By helping to get more subscribers to the News-Ledger, you can help reduce costs for everybody. It's called the "economy of scale." It's cheaper, per person, to print and mail 5,000 copies of the News-Ledger than it is to print and mail 2,500.

In 1994, the circulation of the News-Ledger grew by over 20 percent, to nearly 3,000 actual paid copies per week. If we grow by a similar amount in 1995, we can hold your costs right where they are.

We hope you agree that West Sacramento is a better place because it has a locally owned, independent newspaper to help keep the community informed. We hope you'll help support that newspaper by encouraging a friend or neighbor to subscribe.

And, by the way, another way to support the News-Ledger is to patronize our advertisers whenever possible and to mention their ad in the News-Ledger when you visit them.

Thank you.

Robbery suspect caught on Garnet

Davis police and the California Highway Patrol chased a robbery suspect from Davis to West Sacramento before arresting him Feb. 20.

Lawrence Michael Partida, 35, allegedly brandished a knife in the robbery of a Davis gas station and fled in a stolen vehicle towards Woodland. A Davis police officer pulled Partida's vehicle over, but the suspect reportedly fled again after a brief stop.

A high-speed chase then followed south on I-5 and west on I-80 to West Sacramento's Reed Ave. area. A CHP vehicle collided with Partida's van on Garnet St. on West Sacramento, and Partida was caught after a brief foot pursuit.

He was charged with armed robbery, resisting arrest, reckless driving and driving while intoxicated.

A PETITION has been filed by Douglas A. Kaplan, Public Administrator, in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The PETITION requests that Douglas A. Kaplan, Public Administrator, be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will follow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on March 24, 1995 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 4, Room 200, located at 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Three police officers on leave as department investigates use of force

Three un-named West Sacramento Police Department officers are on administrative leave pending an investigation of a Feb. 8 arrest in which a 27-year old man was injured.

Police Chief Larry Gore said the events surrounding the arrest have not yet been sorted out, but that batons were used and suspect Jesse Beltran was injured on the head. Gore has asked the county district attorney to join in the investigation to determine whether the force used was necessary and appropriate.

Beltran and several others were in a car on Harbor Blvd. when they were stopped for suspected gang activity. Beltran reportedly fled on foot, tripped on a fence, and was chased several blocks before being apprehended.

No complaints have been filed in connection with the case.

Beltran was charged with obstructing and resisting a police officer.

Traveling back through the Red Sea and Suez Canal into the Mediterranean and Adriatic Seas, Mattos and fellow shipmates have been supporting international efforts off the coast of Bosnia.

The 1994 graduate of Turlock High School of Turlock joined the Navy in January 1994.

IRS Offers Free Tax Help

These are typical of questions asked by taxpayers and are presented as a public service of this publication and the IRS.

Q. I always do my tax return myself, but I have a couple of questions I need help with. Does anyone at the IRS answer tax questions?

A. The IRS has employees in many cities to help you. You can get help in person at a local IRS office. To find one in your area, call the IRS telephone number for your area, listed in your tax package or local telephone directory.

If you do not want to go into an IRS office, or if there is no office near you, a toll-free phone service offers answers from specially trained phone assistors. The number is 1-800-829-1040.

In addition, IRS "Tele-Tax" has recorded tax messages on many topics. For a list of topics and the "Tele-Tax" number for your area, see your tax package or order Publication 910, Guide to Free Tax Services.

Q. I work all day during the week. Is there any way I can get help with my taxes during the evening or weekend?

A. For those with touch-tone telephones, "Tele-Tax" recorded tax messages are available 24 hours a day.

Also, IRS trains volunteers who help with taxes in many neighborhoods. Call the IRS to ask about Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) or Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) locations near you. VITA and TCE volunteers can fill out basic income tax returns for persons with disabilities, the elderly, non-English speaking people and those who cannot afford paid preparers.

Q. Is there other free tax help?

A. IRS has more than 100 free publications on specific tax topics. Also, many public libraries have tax forms and publications available for you to photocopy.

For more information on free tax services, call 1-800-829-3676 and order Publication 910.

BRIDGE

BRIDGE IS A LOGICAL GAME

North dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |

| 4 ♦ | Pass | 4 ♠ | Pass |
| 5 ♥ | Pass | 6 ♣ | Pass |
| 7 ♦ | Pass | 7 NT | |

Opening lead — five of spades.

Let's say you're South and get to seven notrump. It might have bothered you to say only three notrump at your first turn, but East's three spade bid was intended to make it hard for you to find satisfactory bid, and it did.

However, you strike gold and wind up in seven notrump. Your last bid is based on the theory that it's usually better to play in seven notrump than seven of a suit, assuming both are feasible contracts. This is because notrump often allows you to explore the different suits more safely during the play than a suit contract does.

Here is a good example of the principle. If North winds up in seven diamonds, he is faced at once with the problem of whether to take a diamond finesse or play for the drop of the queen by cashing the A-K. He might easily go wrong on the basis that because East apparently has seven spades, he is more likely to have a singleton diamond than a doubleton.

But if you're in seven notrump, there's no question about how to proceed. You win the spade lead with the king and cash the ace of spades, ace of diamonds and K-Q of clubs. When you play the ace of hearts and East shows out, you know how much more about East's hand than you knew at trick one. Most importantly, you now know that East started with seven spades and no hearts.

You continue with the king of hearts and a low heart to your queen. When you then cash the A-J of clubs and East follows suit, all your worries melt away. East started with seven spades, no hearts, four clubs and, hence, two diamonds to the king, capturing East's queen, and once again proved that bridge is a logical game.

Correction, amplification on Lighthouse

Information in last week's article about Lighthouse Marina was incorrect. The article said that the city had committed $7 million to the widening and lengthening of Fifth Street, in addition to giving three pieces of property to the Lighthouse Marina developers.

Actually, $7 million is the total investment, including the assessed value of the properties given to the developer.

The city council will consider dropping the requirement for Riverbend Development to build a marina at tonight's meeting. In doing so, the city will also lose its option on the marina land.
